

Greetings,

The Sacramento Public Library Foundation has a lot to be grateful for as we move into 2009. Former donors and Foundation board members are reengaging and reigniting their passion for our library. Library managers, board members, and volunteers have contributed greatly to our telephone outreach operation which has reached nearly 7,000 people, so far. We have another 10,000 people to still reach, so if you like laughing and having a fun time, come join us on the phones.

You never know who you will meet.

With the formation of the Partners working group: a collaboration between the library, the Friends of the Sacramento Public Library, and the Library Foundation, we are identifying systems improvements, clarifying roles and responsibilities, enhancing our fund development capacity, and improving collaboration among the three organizations. A strong collaboration will help us weather the current economic storm and will position us to raise more funds in the future.

This year's Authors on the Move gala event was the beneficiary of more support than ever! Our hosts, Dave Bender, CBS13/CW31 meteorologist; and DeMya Walker, WNBA Sacramento Monarchs basketball player; helped everyone give generously and enthusiastically with their entertaining and spirited repartee. The room was filled to the brim with library supporters and, together, we raised more money than ever for both Foundation operations and Teen Technology Centers throughout the library system.

This is a busy time for all of us at the library and as you can see a time to be grateful. Thank you for your past present and future support. It matters!

April L. Butcher, Executive Director

Naygrow Learning Center in the News

Sacramento's Fox40 television news anchor/reporter Donna Cordova interviewed staff and students at the Naygrow Learning Center, located at Colonial Heights Library. The KXTL-TV news story aired last month which told of the center's important role as an after-school homework help center for local 4th- through 8th-grade students

Thank You!
